Background

The magnitude 9.0 earthquake that struck the area off the western coast of northern Sumatra on Sunday morning, 26 December 2004, at 7:59 am local time (00:59 GMT) triggered massive tidal waves, or tsunamis, that inundated coastal areas in countries all around the Indian Ocean rim – from Indonesia to Somalia. Sri Lanka, the Indonesian province of Aceh, four states of southern India, the Maldives, and coastal areas of Thailand, Malaysia, and Myanmar were the most severely affected. The earthquake epicentre was located at 3.30 N, 95.78E at a depth of 10 kilometres. The area is historically prone to seismic upheaval due to its location on the margins of tectonic plates. However, tidal waves of this magnitude are rare and therefore the level of preparedness was very low.

Summary of the human toll caused by the tsunami as of 27 January

In Indonesia only, the number of dead includes persons previously listed as missing.*

Note: East Africa covers tsunami-affected countries of Kenya, Madagascar, Seychelles, Somalia and Tanzania.

Thousands of staff, relief and medical personnel, and volunteers of the Red Cross and Red Crescent societies of the tsunami-affected countries have provided a vital initial response, in search and rescue, clean-up, providing temporary shelter and immediate relief assistance, emergency medical services, psychological first aid and tracing. It is estimated that over 5,000 Red Cross and Red Crescent volunteers and 76 relief and medical teams have been mobilized in the disaster-affected areas.

The Federation immediately launched a Preliminary Emergency Appeal on the day of the disaster with a focus on Sri Lanka, Indonesia and the Maldives. On 3 January 2005, the ICRC launched budget extensions additional to its 2005 Emergency Appeal for Indonesia and Sri Lanka. Along with initial support from the country and regional delegations, the Federation deployed within 24-72 hours three Field Assessment and Coordination Teams \(FACT\) and 18 Emergency Response Units \(ERU\) in the sectors of water and sanitation, health care, aid distribution, telecommunications, and logistics/transportation to Sri Lanka, Indonesia and the Maldives.

A total of 102 relief flights have now arrived in the various affected countries and a further 23 flights are in the Federation relief pipeline, making a total of 125 relief flights coordinated through the Federation.

The Federation and the ICRC in Geneva are currently working on an organizational framework for Movement coordination in the tsunami operations. A note has been sent out to national societies and delegations on this today, for consultation. It is expected that the framework, which will set in place strong platforms for coordination, will be finalized shortly, and a final note will be then sent out by the Federation and the ICRC.

East Africa

Focus on African resource mobilization, relationship with the corporate sector and external relations

The tsunami disaster has generated a new dynamic across the African continent. Some of the world's largest recipients of aid in African countries and their Red Cross Red Crescent national societies have, according to their means, joined the international donors' community together with wealthier nations.

All in all, 15 national societies launched emergency appeals or initiated fundraising initiatives. The amounts raised are less important in the African context although the total amount received CHF 2,908,840 (US$ 2,447,877) – with the lion's share going to the South African Red Cross - in less than a month from public and corporate sector is quite impressive. The current wave of African solidarity with people from other parts of the world dismisses the misconception that the continent lacks resources.

The partnerships established between Red Cross societies and private businesses during the tsunami emergency set up a new path for future relations with an impact on the organization's income for long-term activities and general sustainability. African national societies are also aware of their responsibilities to upgrade not only their financial management systems but also to become more transparent and accountable. These are not new commitments; they were reaffirmed during the 2004 Pan African Red Cross Red Crescent Conference in Algiers and are also to be found carved into the Ouagadougou declaration. It only means that the pressure to perform has increased.

The media has been a key factor in the success of the fundraising activities. Entire TV programmes were dedicated to covering the Red Cross Red Crescent response during the emergency. In an unusual and absolutely new development, African national society leaders – used to speaking mainly about their national programmes - have suddenly become spokespersons of the International Federation giving interviews on activities conducted by sister Red Cross societies, thousands of kilometres away in Indonesia, Sri Lanka, Thailand or India. The impact was immediate with people donating generously. Being on the spotlight increased the expectations on national societies' performance at home. There are more expectations from the East African Regional Communications Forum, an advocacy, communications and external relations platform, to develop the skills of its members and replicate those at the national levels.

There has been a clear increase in the number of humanitarian diplomatic relationships forged as both national societies and regional delegations of the Federation being approached by embassies for information and for providing donations in favour of tsunami victims on the East African coast. Federation representatives were regularly called to support national societies in preparation of - as well as during the launch of - emergency appeals. The need to strengthen the Federation's regional external relations structures became obvious and work has already started in this direction as well.

While focusing on disaster management, short-term rehabilitation and long-term recovery, the recently adopted Nairobi Initiative and the soon-to-be completed East Africa Tsunami Plan of Action are taking into account all of the above details.

It is important to underline the overall coordinated approach by African Red Cross Red Crescent societies in relation to their fundraising activities. All these actions were aimed at supplementing the global Federation tsunami appeal and contributed to creating an image of strength, unity and coherence in the eyes of the general public.

In East Africa, the fundraising initiative was given by the Seychelles Red Cross Society. Although directly affected by the tidal waves, with its office inundated, the national society launched a national and international appeal as it was conducting emergency operations. Part of the funds raised, more than US$ 9,000, were used to assist some of the 500 affected households while the rest was aimed for supporting the Sri Lankan tsunami victims. A meeting was held by the national society's leadership to consider the assistance strategy and to coordinate with new donors, including German and Spanish Red Cross Societies, in light of the existing support from the Federation and for Rapid Intervention in the Indian Ocean (PIROI).

In Kenya, early warning and disaster preparedness measures taken by authorities and the Red Cross prevented the death of many. Only two deaths were recorded in the coastal resort of Malindi and no deaths or injuries were noted on the busy tourist area of Mombasa. It was a wave of calls from the public that encouraged Kenya Red Cross Society to launch an emergency appeal in the presence of diplomatic representatives from the affected countries, the ICRC and the Federation. The national society has so far contributed nearly US$10,000 from a whole range of private businesses and general public. One anecdotal detail is important to underline in order to describe people's attitude and desire to assist; that of a Kenyan calling the Red Cross and asking if giving KES 100 (US$ 1.5) would help. People across Africa did donate, within their means for doing so.

The Uganda Red Cross Society spontaneously launched an emergency appeal and, like the Rwandan Red Cross, contributed human resources (one information officer each) towards the Federation's regional tsunami emergency team. One is conducting an operations review mission to the tsunami-affected areas in Somalia while the other just returned to Kigali after a two-week long mission in Nairobi.

Although its country is confronted with a severe drought, the Ethiopian Red Cross Society (ERCS) decided to extend its solidarity with the tsunami victims as well. The national society donated US$ 25,000 to assist people affected by the tsunami in Somalia and Seychelles. The ERCS President expressed the deep humanitarian concern of the society's staff and volunteers toward the tsunami victims as well as the hope that these actions will strengthen the solidarity within the Red Cross Red Crescent Movement.

In western Africa, the Senegalese Red Cross Society joined global efforts to assist the tsunami victims by initiating an ongoing fundraising initiative.

In Angola it was the government that initiated a fundraising initiative aimed at both the public and private sectors. A donation of about US$ 16,000 was also received by the Angolan Red Cross through the UN Development Programme's office in Luanda. The Botswana Red Cross Society established donations centres across the country and raised 37,000 Pula (US$ 8,000) to date. Lesotho and Malawi Red Cross Societies launched appeals for cash and in kind donations and the initiatives are receiving a lot of support and coverage by the local media. In early January the Swaziland Red Cross Society launched an emergency appeal combined with a planned 66 kilometres sponsored walk.

In Zambia fund raising activities are ongoing with the Red Cross already raising the equivalent of US$ 1,000.

The Zimbabwe Red Cross has joined a government committee set up to oversee fundraising initiatives in the country. The national society received a donation of 15, 000 litres of mineral water which is to be delivered to the Indonesian Red Cross.

In support of the Federation's tsunami relief efforts, the Mozambique Red Cross Society received US$ 100,000 from its government. In addition, the national society received US$ 10,974 from the general public and collected clothes, blankets and mineral water. Different fundraising events were held in Maputo with the proceeds being pledged to the Red Cross. The event organized by the Foundation of Community Development and Graça Machel Foundation brought together diplomats, the civil society, artists and academics while the Camoes Institute is running a handcraft exhibition at which 75 items donated by 35 artists will be sold and the benefits given to tsunami victims through the Red Cross. The Mozambican fundraising initiative continues to receive a lot of support from the municipalities and the local media.

A fundraising project was initiated in Namibia following public advocacy activities including briefings and interviews on the Federation's tsunami response by the leadership of the Namibia Red Cross. So far, the national society has collected more than ZAR 80,000 (US$ 13,500). This is Namibia Red Cross' first ever fundraising effort of such a dimension. Donations are being received from both individuals and the corporate sector and include US$ 170,000 by Price WaterHouseCoopers to the Federation's Secretariat in Geneva. Barlow World Namibia has donated US$ 1,670 and indicated its readiness for a long-term partnership with Namibia Red Cross.

Several corporate companies have organized fundraising events. The First Bank, a branch of Barclays Bank as well as FNB Namibia Holdings organized soccer tournaments in conjunction with Namibia Football Association/NPL. A music concert is planned for 11 February. Valentine's Day is dedicated to fundraising for the tsunami victims with the country's Prime Minister and Minister of Basic Education expected to attend. A local telecommunication company, MTC, is soliciting its clients to donate money to the Red Cross' account through a free SMS service. Other private companies such as Easy Life Kitchen are also planning fundraising actions.

A national Task Force was set up to coordinate fundraising initiatives, and includes two major banks, FNB Namibia Holdings and Bank Windhoek, a mobile telecommunication company (MTC), Price Waterhouse Coopers and others. FNB Namibia Holdings opened an account into which cash deposits will be made free of charge. Bank Windhoek has also opened an account and wishes to be a long-term partner with the Namibia Red Cross in relief efforts.

The biggest African public and corporate mobilization in support to the tsunami victims seems to be in South Africa. The South African Red Cross (SARCS) was the first in the region to launch a fundraising initiative which managed to raise more than US$ 2 million.

South Africa Broadcasting Company (SABC) is strongly supporting the SARCS fundraising efforts with messages urging the public to donate being aired on almost all SABC programmes. The importance of the Red Cross' work is highlighted by the fact that the SARC president will be working full time for the next two months on the society's fundraising project. Besides strengthening the management system of the fundraising efforts this initiative has enabled the national society to establish new partnerships with private corporations.

Several examples of these include the partnership with SA Airlink and South Africa Airways which expressed their wish that their staff be trained in disaster management and eventually become Red Cross volunteers. Both companies mentioned the possibility of offering the Red Cross rebated travel possibilities. The list of companies and associations supporting the Red Cross includes: the City of Tswane, Midrand Action Cricket, Deloitte, Anglo Gold, CALTEX, Lansdowne Bottling Company, and the Umzinyathi Canoe Club among many other.

Intelligence, a local glossy magazine will dedicate its April edition to the tsunami disaster and the work of the Red Cross. Kids News is also focusing its popular children's TV programme on the tsunami victims. H2O and Surge Productions offered to donate 80 per cent of proceeds from their popular music festival. An employee donation scheme is set up by BHP Billiton where the management will add a Rand for each one donated by an employee.

Laerskool Dr Havenga in Roodpoort and Atlantic Ridge, a health product company of Otterly, made donations of water for the tsunami victims. The public and business community offering goods in kind agreed to convert their donations into cash to avoid logistical problems. In cases where this was not possible it was agreed that the donations could go to disaster-affected areas within South Africa. BOHP African Shipping Containers of Cape Town assisted with two containers for the shipping of NetCare 911 donations. SARCS made contacts with sister Red Cross societies in the affected areas to finalize bilateral shipping arrangements.

Somalia

Overview

Last week the UN independent expert on human rights, Ghanim Alnajjar, urged the international community to remember those affected by the tsunami in the Puntland region of north-eastern Somalia where more than 150 people were killed and about 50,000 people displaced. Noting that some emergency supplies had been distributed to affected families, Alnajjar warned that Somali victims may be in danger of being forgotten by the international community.

Meanwhile, CARE-USA, allocated US $2.5 million to help rebuild Somali communities devastated by the tsunami over the next 18 months. The funds will be used for short-term emergency relief, reconstruction and rehabilitation, disaster mitigation plans and training, livelihood recovery and helping families generate incomes.

According to the Chinese news agency, Xinhua, the Chinese government flew relief materials worth $1.3 million into Nairobi on 23 January for drought and tsunami-affected people in Somalia and Kenya. The Chinese government had also earlier donated US$ 100,000 to the Kenyan and the Somali governments.

Red Cross and Red Crescent Action

Objective 1 (health): The health conditions among the most affected people in Somali coastal regions of Alula, Iskushuban (Hafun), Bender Beila, Eyl and Jariban have improved and the outbreak of epidemics and waterborne diseases prevented.

UNICEF is providing health and sanitation support to 1,250 households in the affected areas in close collaboration with the Somali Red Crescent.

Objective 2 (immediate livelihood restoration): Essential livelihood rehabilitation activities supported for selected families in the Seychelles and Somalia.

A Federation operational review mission is being conducted to review the current situation, assess the SRCS involvement and to examine the needs for further SRCS input into the relief phase. The review aims at identifying potential areas of enhancement to the current SRCS/IFRC interventions in the medium- and long-term.

The review team comprising the Somalia delegation's health officer, the regional water and sanitation software officer and an information officer from the Uganda Red Cross are currently conducting a 10-day field visit to the affected areas in Somalia. The team is accompanied by the national health officer of the SRCS based in Garowe and the Bossasso branch secretary. The team is closely collaborating with other partners including the inter-agency Tsunami Assessment Team coordinated by UN-OCHA/FSAU. The deployment of an information officer with the team is expected to generate significant information output from the operational review that will hopefully maintain the East African Tsunami effort in continental and global news.

Objective 3 (capacity building): The disaster response capacity of national societies in the East Africa region is strengthened.

Recruitment is ongoing for IT and telecommunications delegates as well as a francophone disaster management delegate to assist the regional delegation in the overall Tsunami recovery operation.

Seychelles

Overview

The Seychelles Red Cross Society held a national disaster committee coordination meeting to address the issue of providing assistance to those who have not yet received any. Volunteers undertook a reassessment at national level on the north side of the main island, the south-west where the tsunami actually hit and the north-east part of Mahé island. A meeting is scheduled with governmental representatives to identify priorities and find ways to assist those affected by the tsunami. There are emerging needs in terms of replacement of destroyed household items as well as aid for farmers who lost their crops in the disaster. Clean up of houses by volunteers and local social organizations continue.

The Red Cross and local authorities are working together to build up clear statistics on how fishermen were affected and how they can be assisted. A direct survey of the three islands affected is being organized.

Red Cross and Red Crescent Action

Objective 2 (immediate livelihood restoration): Essential livelihood rehabilitation activities supported for selected families in the Seychelles and Somalia.

Ninety mattresses and 60 kitchen sets from the Federation's airlift were received and distributed to 128 families which had gas cookers, including 14 families on Pralé.

Objective 3 (capacity building): The disaster response capacity of national societies in the Eastern Africa region is strengthened.

Disaster preparedness stocks (50 sets kitchen utensils, 20 family tents, 10 office tents, 50 tarpaulins and 50 blankets) procured by the Nairobi regional logistics department are expected to reach the Seychelles. These will be pre-positioned on the islands of Pralé, La digue and Mahé.

Preparations for a vulnerability and capacity assessment (VCA) exercise and disaster management and psychosocial support training are ongoing.

Africa Region

Overview

The regional delegation in Nairobi continues to offer support and assistance to those countries in its region, and is coordinating the substantial interest and support from other African national societies and non-Movement partners. Preparedness measures are being stepped up in anticipation of the 2005 cyclone season with a bulletin on the situation in Madagascar already posted on the Federation's Disaster Management Information System (DMIS).

The recruitment process is ongoing for a francophone disaster management delegate and an IT/Telecommunications delegate to assist the regional delegation with the tsunami recovery and disaster preparedness activities.

Coordination

A five-year plan of action is under development to build on the priorities agreed in the Nairobi Initiative. The current draft will be presented during the Federation's Africa heads of delegation meeting in Dakar and at the Movement recovery meeting to be held in February.

Red Cross and Red Crescent Action

Objective 3 (capacity building): The disaster response capacity of national societies in the Eastern Africa region is strengthened.

Suppliers are reporting substantial depletion of stocks due to the large-scale relief operations in Asia. A formal request was sent to ICRC Nairobi for assistance in the management of disaster preparedness stocks for the Federation in Nairobi.

The preparation work for a training of regional disaster response teams, one on dealing with media in emergencies and information management skills and the other on regional logistics training, is nearing completion.

Preparations for this activity include meetings, already arranged, with UN-OCHA regional support office and other organizations.

Objective 4 (advocacy): The humanitarian needs of the disaster affected and the work of the national societies are advocated for.

The Rwandan Red Cross' information officer, seconded to the regional delegation to assist with the tsunami related activities, completed her mission and returned to Kigali. Her close work with the regional information delegate resulted in a feature article on Somalia being published on the Federation's web site. During her debriefing the information officer expressed appreciation for her learning experience with the regional delegation and said that it helped her better understand its work and importance. Her experience will be shared with members of the East African Regional Communications Forum later this year. The information officer from Uganda Red Cross is expected to return from a field mission to Somalia on Wednesday, 2 February.
