Background

An earthquake with a magnitude of 6.3 on the Richter scale struck near the city of Yogyakarta in Central Java at 05:54 hrs local time on 27 May 2006. It caused extreme, widespread destruction and resulted in considerable human injuries and loss of lives. Villages in the more remote areas south of Yogyakarta as well as in and around Bantul were the most severely affected. The earthquake epicentre was located some 20 km south-southeast of Yogyakarta at a depth of 10 km. Tremors were felt across the region, as far away as Semarang and Surabaya on the opposite coast of Java.

Operational developments

Actions plans for a longer term operation are being finalized as the operation enters the rehabilitation and recovery phase two months after the earthquake. While efforts focus on ensuring people still living in tents and tarpaulins are adequately protected when the rainy season starts, specialized assistance is also being planned for survivors who suffered permanent disabilities and those discharged from hospitals and health centres without proper follow-up. Meanwhile, support to health facilities and the establishment of permanent water and sanitation facilities to affected communities continues.

The PMI, with support from the Federation, has continued to distribute relief items. Relief distribution this week continued to fill in the gaps to ensure all targeted families received a complete package of family kits, hygiene parcels, baby kits, sleeping mats and shelter materials. The total number of the families reached so far has remained the same as reported in the last update. Remaining affected families are expected to receive relief goods starting next week.

The construction of the first model shelter under the early recovery programme will be completed this week with the construction of six more shelters underway in Dlingo. More model shelters will be constructed in the remaining sub-villages of Gantiwarno starting next week. These houses will serve as a model for local communities to replicate.

The German Red Cross and Spanish Red Cross have continued with their early recovery programmes while the Netherlands Red Cross is supporting children with school kits. The Kuwait Red Crescent Society is providing tents, food and medical assistance.

As the emergency situation ends and the operation stabilises, discussions are underway to expand the Yogyakarta and Central Java earthquake operation to support disaster management efforts in the recent tsunami-affected areas of West Java. The results of these discussions, still in the initial phase, will be duly reported in the coming updates.

Red Cross and Red Crescent action - objectives, progress, impact

Emergency relief (food, non-food and emergency shelter)

Overall Goal: Beneficiaries have the necessary immediate support to meet their basic needs for food, non-food items and shelter until their permanent needs are met for the long-term.

Objectives:

- Food: 65,000 families (approximately 325,000 beneficiaries) have supplementary food support until such time as they are able to resume their own income generating activities.
- Non-food items: 65,000 families (approximately 325,000 beneficiaries) have the necessary household items and basic economic support to restore domestic stability and their own capacity to initiate their recovery is reinforced.
- Emergency shelter: 65,000 families (approximately 325,000 beneficiaries) are provided with the appropriate type of emergency shelter, tools and materials to support their immediate recovery needs, with consideration of temporary, intermediate requirements for coping with the pending monsoon rain season that normally starts in September/October.

The distribution of relief items has continued from seven operational points. As reported in the last update, more than 96,000 families have now received relief goods, including emergency shelter material. This week, relief distribution has focused on filling in the gaps, ie. to provide remaining relief items to families which received incomplete relief packages during the earlier distributions.

The PMI assessment teams in Bantul have continued with the post-distribution assessment. This assessment will also be conducted in other operational areas.

As the emergency relief distribution nears its target, final plans for tool kit distribution to support the affected families for reconstruction are being developed. The five most affected districts will be selected for the initial distribution of 20,000 tool kits, targeting 100,000 families (one tool kit per five families). Logistic arrangements have been made and distribution of the tools is expected to start in the second week of August.

Early recovery/ transitional shelter

Work on the construction of transitional shelters has continued with the PMI setting up tent offices in all the 22 villages selected for the early recovery pilot project. Undergraduates of Sanata Dharma University and Atma Jaya University continue to assist and work with local communities at sub-village level.

Sub-village level teams in some villages have already started to discuss the kind of materials they need to restart construction. Proposals are expected next week and reconstruction work will start when the necessary bank accounts and payment system are in place.

The construction of a first show-shelter will be completed this week while six more such shelters are being constructed in Dlingo. The construction of 15 more shelters will start next week in the remaining sub-villages of Gantiwarno. In the meantime, the architecture undergraduates of Atma Jaya University have completed a bamboo shelter construction training course and are now working with the bamboo consultant to finalise an emergency shelter construction handbook for publication and distribution.

Six PMI volunteers, supported by the Federation, continue to train members of the local community at the village level on finance. Currently, 60 people attend training each day, with 270 people already trained so far. The number of people being trained daily is expected to increase after Sanata Dharma undergraduates complete their training of trainers programme.

Village level agreements with other organisations working in Gantiwarno and Dlingo are being drafted. The local government is undertaking a coordinating role to ensure all shelters are up before the rainy season starts.

The German Red Cross's initiative to distribute wood for construction has now reached 40 per cent of the 2,000 targeted families in the sub-district of Prambanan. PMI volunteers have continued their efforts to prepare beneficiary lists for shelter support in the sub-district of Wedi. Distribution of shelter materials for early recovery is expected next week. Similarly, the Spanish Red Cross is continuing with its plan to provide 2,732 families with tool kits, temporary shelter, livelihood and water and sanitation support under its early recovery programme.

Shelter Cluster Group

The Federation continues to be represented in the Emergency Shelter Cluster and provide technical inputs to the government and other agencies as a responsible member of the Shelter Cluster Group (SCG).

The SCG has completed guidelines on the use of appropriate materials in transitional shelter, and made these available to the broader humanitarian community working in Yogyakarta and Central Java. In the mean time, a survey on shelter situation in the affected areas has been completed by a Shelter Security Survey Group. The findings of the survey will be available next week.

Please click here for a map indicating shelter coverage distribution of agencies of the shelter cluster group, and here for a map of emergency shelter needs.

Health and Care

Overall goal: The mortality and morbidity amongst the affected population is reduced to pre-disaster levels by addressing immediate basic health care needs and future health risks through preventative and basic health care interventions.

The health situation remains stable, with acute respiratory diseases being the most common morbidity threat. Weekly epidemiological data issued by the WHO/ Provincial Health Office (PHO) reports of 17,348 consultations across six districts this week.

Based on the new tetanus cases reported each week (1-2), with several more cases associated with injuries sustained during reconstruction of houses, the PHO has highlighted the additional need for health promotion efforts and tetanus vaccinations. To date, 80 tetanus cases with 31 deaths (case fatality rate 38%) have been reported.

Incidences of diarrhoea are still relatively high. There have been four suspected cases of typhoid in Bantul and Yogyakarta. One case of malaria, imported from Sumatra, has been confirmed in Sleman.

A remaining major health priority is support to the severely injured people discharged without sufficient follow-up and access to health services. The number of such patients has yet to be confirmed, with some agencies claiming between 200 and 1,000. Handicap International (HI) and Medecins Sans Frontieres (MSF) continue to map such cases. The PMI will also continue to identify such cases at village level and contribute to follow-up care.

Objective 1: To provide psycho-social support programmes (PSP) to affected communities in districts severely affected by the earthquake and to PMI volunteers supporting the response.

Indonesia: Yogyakarta Earthquake; Appeal no. MDRID001; Operations Update no. 10

A total of 18 PMI volunteers trained to provide psycho-social support are carrying out community-based activities, focusing on children. They organized games, puppetry shows and Javanese theatre which involved some 700 children from Klaten during the week.

Objective 2: Reduce the impact of the most common diseases and ailments seen in post disaster situations, including epidemics.

Health promotion materials are being developed and a strategy has been proposed by the health promotion sub-cluster, chaired by UNICEF, to identify priority areas such as hygiene awareness, promotion of breastfeeding, avian flu and immunization.

The PHO has confirmed that the next round of tetanus vaccinations will take place during the second week of August, and it is hoped that coverage rate will increase to 80 per cent.

Objective 3: To provide 325,000 beneficiaries with access to preventive, basic clinical and physical health and rehabilitation services.

A total of 739 patients received medical care in Bantul this week from the PMI's mobile clinic service. This service, supported by the Federation, is also active in Klaten. The mobile clinic service will be expanded to other areas as well in the coming weeks when other organizations withdraw their activities.

Preliminary discussions are underway with MSF to take over some caseload in Bantul and to support a rehabilitation referral process to Handicap International and YAKUUM, a local NGO.

Objective 4: To support and coordinate efforts with Movement partners and international partners in support of the PMI and its government (MOH).

The PMI and the Federation are actively participating in the health cluster and sub-cluster meetings. Further meetings have been held with the PHO regarding the expansion of the PMI mobile clinics.

Objective 5: To ensure the target population has access to adequate and safe water supply, sanitation and hygiene promotion, materials and facilities to prevent significant outbreaks of water supply, sanitation and hygiene related disease.

The Federation, with the help of PMI volunteers, continues to survey and make plans to ensure that the earthquake-affected communities have easy access to clean water.

The PMI volunteers have supported the installation of a water supply system and are making necessary sanitation arrangements, including the provision of latrines, in a recently set up camp in Gutimulyo village at Kulong Progo, Bantul. They have also cleaned the area for the camp and prepared the camp layout with support from the Federation.

To date, the PMI has cleaned 1,135 wells in the area of Bantul with support from the German Red Cross. The Spanish Red Cross and PMI continue to provide water by trucking 100 to 150 thousand litres daily to 7,000 people in Sleman.
