Appeal history:

- Launched on 30 July 2007 for CHF 9,462,000 (USD 7,692,683 or EUR 5,710,320) for 12 months to assist 400,000 beneficiaries.
- Disaster Relief Emergency Funds (DREF) allocated: 16 July 2007 for CHF 240,000 (USD 199,465 or EUR 146,468).

Operational Summary:

Devastating floods have swept through more than 24 provinces in China since May. To date, hundreds of thousands are still living in temporary shelters and without immediate prospects for returning their lives to normal.

The Red Cross Society of China and the government of China have provided relief items, including food, shelter and blankets, but the rebuilding of homes is by far the priority of both the local governments and the local people. With the support of appeal funding, the Red Cross Society of China (RCSC), plans to continue the distribution of rice and quilts to affected populations in the five provinces of Anhui, Henan, Hubei, Sichuan and Chongqing. The RCSC will also provide support to more than an estimated 8,000 people (2,000 families) in the reconstruction of their destroyed homes.

The RCSC and Federation officers visit flood-affected villagers in Shang He Miao village, Hubei province. The Federation and RCSC are currently assessing the recommended areas in five provinces for housing reconstruction. RCSC.

importance on building the capacities of these communities in risk reduction and flood mitigation planning so as to establish the means for the community to protect itself in future disasters. While funding has been pledged to cover immediate relief supplies, there is a more urgent need to provide support to local communities, especially in emergency rehabilitation of homes, risk reduction and mitigation.

Background

Continuous flooding from May through the end of August has caused destruction and affected millions of people in 24 provinces across China. The ministry of civil affairs states that the natural disasters that have hit China this year are far worse than in the previous year and already exceed annual averages. The government states that stronger relief efforts, better early warning systems, stronger dykes and timely usage of water diversion areas this year have reduced the number of deaths caused by flooding. Nevertheless, at least 1,138 people have died with others still missing. It is estimated that natural disasters have affected more than 310 million people in China in 2007, and the toll is rising. In addition to excessive floods sweeping the country, heat waves, drought, and insect infestations have also caused great concern, further depleting the resources of local communities, governments and Red Cross branches.

After reeling from a devastating July, which accounted for more than half of all damage statistics on natural disasters in 2007 up to that time, Typhoon Sepat landed in southern China on 19 August, bringing about even more destruction and death.

Official reports on Sepat claim that in the hardest hit provinces of Fujian, Hunan, Zhejiang, Jiangxi and Guangdong, eight million people were affected and at least 39 killed. Over 1.76 million were evacuated and at least 23,000 homes were completely destroyed. 300,000 hectares of crops have been lost or damaged, and economic losses are estimated to be at CNY 6.7 billion (CHF 1.07 billion or EUR 2.8 billion).

Floods completely destroyed the houses of four families in Shang He Miao village, Hubei province, but left many others damaged beyond affordable repair. The government is concerned about inadequate funding for reconstruction for both destroyed and damaged houses. RCSC.

Among the areas most affected by the floods this season are the provinces of Anhui, Sichuan, Hubei and Henan, and the Chongqing municipality, where the Federation is supporting the RCSC's relief and recovery efforts through this appeal.

Since the last operational update, Hubei, Anhui and Sichuan have again been hit by hail and thunderstorms, torrential rains and overflowing rivers. The most recent flooding has caused several thousand more houses to collapse, further affecting hundreds of thousands with the death toll rising once again.

Recent flooding in the past week caused by torrential rain in other regions, including drought-stricken areas, has affected Yunnan, Inner Mongolia, Qinghai, Gansu, Shanxi and Shaanxi.

While attending to the needs of the affected populations through relief and response efforts, the local government and Red Cross branches have expressed increasing concern over the lack of adequate housing and funding for reconstruction of homes. While the cost of complete reconstruction far exceeds the capacities of local government support, the cost of repairs to those houses damaged is also far above individual household incomes and what local families can afford. The concern is that many families will continue to live in severely damaged houses putting themselves at further risk as time goes on, and possibly facing complete destruction during the next disaster. Local Red Cross branches and all others involved recognize that if minor repairs, at a lower cost, can be made now, the cost of complete rehabilitation in coming years can be avoided. Further consideration also needs to go into long-term solutions such as affordable and accessible insurance schemes for both agriculture and homes.

Operational developments

The RCSC has responded rapidly to the needs of affected populations since the onset of the floods in each province and county. Rice, tents, clothing and blankets have been provided to those most severely affected by floods this year.

After Typhoon Sepat hit the southern region of China, the RCSC headquarters provided CNY 900,000 (CHF 143,502) in relief items and funds to three of the most heavily affected provinces: Hunan, Fujian, and Zhejiang. These consist of 220 tonnes of rice, 240 tents, and 5,000 containers of emergency food items. In addition, the local Red Cross branches have been actively involved since the storm hit, and the branches in these three provinces alone have contributed over CNY 2 million (CHF 318,894) worth of relief items and funds to their affected populations. After a visit by the RCSC headquarters' vice president, another CNY 300,000 (CHF 47,833) worth of rice has been procured for these provinces.

Relief and recovery efforts in the five provinces covered in this appeal have been moving along steadily. A brief summary of the operation is as follows:

- On 16 July, disaster relief emergency funds (DREF) of CHF 240,000 were allocated for the immediate procurement of 200 tonnes of rice for over 13,000 beneficiaries and 15,000 blankets for affected persons in three provinces hardest hit: Sichuan, Hubei and Anhui. The distribution has been completed and RCSC branches continue to seek local and national funding to provide for the ongoing needs.
- On 30 July, the Federation launched an emergency appeal in order to provide emergency relief to more than 400,000 beneficiaries and reconstruct housing for 2,000 families. The plan calls for long-term disaster risk management and flood mitigation needs. This will be carried out through the implementation of a community-based disaster preparedness programme recently developed through joint efforts of RCSC, the Federation secretariat and other implementing partners, such as Hong Kong Red Cross branch.
- On 10 August, the Federation's regional disaster management delegate and regional financial manager met with representatives of the five provinces, including financial and project managers, to be updated on the current situation, produce a joint plan of action, and review operational/financial procedures.
- The tender process for rice and quilts has been completed, and distribution will be scheduled in September, and into October.
- On 23 August, the new relief delegate, seconded by the Japanese Red Cross Society, arrived in Beijing to oversee the flood operations and provide technical support to the RCSC and the branches implementing relief and recovery efforts.
- In late August, the Federation regional disaster management delegate, the relief coordinator, the RCSC headquarters and branches began visiting recommended sites for reconstruction in the Hubei province. Assessments will continue in early September as the team goes to the other four provinces.

Red Cross and Red Crescent action - objectives, progress, impact

Emergency relief: food and basic non-food items

Objective 1: 100,000 of the most affected families (400,000 people) in Anhui, Henan, Hubei, Sichuan, and Chongqing have received 6,000 MT rice (15kg per person/one time distribution), 45,000 quilts and 3,000 boxes of water purification tablets.

Rice

Progress/Achievements: A tender process on rice procurement was completed and reviewed with the selection of four companies on 24 August, covering five provinces. The purchase orders were signed by the headquarters of the RCSC on 30 August.

As prices were higher than originally expected, the amount purchased was 942.54 tonnes, about six per cent less than the expected 1,000 tonnes. All the rice will be delivered to the counties by 6 September.

Families affected by the floods in July are still living in temporary shelters in Xia Chuan village, Hubei province. Reconstruction of housing is critical if people are to return to normalcy. [RCSC]

Impact: A total of 62,800 people in five provinces will benefit from this round of rice distribution.

Quilts

Progress/Achievements: The German government and German Red Cross specifically targeted Hubei province for distribution of 24,000 quilts. Hubei Red Cross branch and the Federation secretariat conducted a tender and chose a company on 28 August. Since the price was lower than expected, they were able to purchase 26,000 quilts, which were consequently approved by the German government. All quilts will be delivered to seven counties in Hubei province no later than 10 October.

A purchase order for the remaining 20,000 quilts designated for the other four provinces will be placed as soon as two soft in-kind pledge contributions for quilts are confirmed. All distribution should be finished by the end of October.

Impact: Once the soft pledges on quilts are confirmed, a total of 46,000 quilts will be procured and distributed. This will serve approximately 23,000 families, or 92,000 beneficiaries. Thus, the need for quilts will have been fully covered through contributions to the appeal.

Emergency rehabilitation: reconstruction of homes

Objective 2: 2,000 most vulnerable, displaced and poor families living in severely flood-affected villages are assisted in the rebuilding of their homes through co-funding with the local government.

Progress/Achievements: With the current level of contributions, the RCSC and the Federation secretariat are in the process of choosing two provinces to be the first to receive funding for the rehabilitation of homes. After the 10 August planning meeting with the five provinces, RCSC headquarters and the Federation secretariat, each province recommended two counties most in need of reconstruction assistance. Two provinces will be selected for the first round of reconstruction work based on selection criteria jointly decided upon by headquarters and the Federation secretariat. Other considerations include the availability of financial and administrative support of local governments, and the local Red Cross branch capacity.

At the end of August, a team from RCSC headquarters and the Federation secretariat visited two counties in the Hubei province to conduct an assessment of the needs there and consider this area for the first round of reconstruction. The following summary describes the situation in these areas:

Yun Xi county, Hubei province

In Yun Xi county, a total of 3,164 families completely lost their houses after being hit twice by devastating floods, both on 28 July and 9 August. Currently, there are still around 150 households living in temporary shelters. Emergency relief items such as clothing, food and quilts have been delivered by the Hubei Red Cross together with the local government. Rice allocations have been distributed at 750 g per person per day.

The provincial government is offering a subsidy of CNY 1,000 (CHF 160), for every collapsed house and an additional CNY 500 (CHF 80) from the central government of China. Those who lost their home due to the floods in this area will therefore receive a total of CNY 1500 (CHF 240). As noted in the table below, the cost of building a home is far greater than the subsidized amount.

Item	Cost per unit	Total	Average size	TOTAL COST
Cement	CNY 370/tonne (CHF 58/tonne)	370/m <sup>2</sup> (including only minimum labour)	120 m <sup>2</sup> (3 – 4 rooms)	CNY 44,400 (CHF 7,000) (average home)
Bricks	CNY 0.27/piece (CHF 0.04/piece)

While the average annual income of Yun Xi county and urban area residents for 2006 was CNY 5,980 (CHF 945) per person, the actual average income for farmers in this county was CNY 1,984 (CHF 313) and all homes lost by the floods belonged to farmers.

This is the first time the Yun Xi government has presented a project proposal to the RCSC for Federation support, thus if selected, capacity building on a local level will be an important component. Yun Xi is one of the poorest counties in Hubei and this season, it has been heavily hit by floods. The Yun Xi government is ready to cooperate with the Federation in the housing reconstruction project and will follow project management guidelines set by the Federation.

Yun Xi's government has experience in mobilizing the local community. The government has facilitated discussions amongst the local villagers and aims to select the most disadvantaged families for Federation support. For the housing reconstruction projects, the Federation targets 200 households per county. The Yun Xi government would like to conduct a transparent selection among all 3,164 homeless families so that 200 most disadvantaged families will be chosen as beneficiaries.

Considering its interest in working with local authorities to build capacity and encouraging support for local people, the Federation is offering a CNY 12,000 (CHF 1,895) grant with the expectation that the local government and banks will also contribute matching funds in the form of grants and loans. Discussions have already begun in Yun Xi county to set up mechanisms to maximize government funding at county level.

The government is offering a CNY 12,000 (CHF 1,895) grant to selected beneficiaries and is working with local banks to ensure that low-interest, long-term loans are offered to all beneficiaries who also need this option to cover their reconstruction costs. It is estimated that it may take most loan borrowers at least 14 years to repay the loans, as their annual income is not sufficient for rapid pay-off. The government is also working on setting up mechanisms which meet Red Cross requirements, for the transfer of funds to each family,

Ma An Township, Yun Xi County

On 30 August, the Federation disaster management delegate visited Ma An township which is one of the most affected townships in Yun Xi county. In the 9 August floods that hit Ma An, 624 families lost their houses. The Yun Xi government has proposed 120 households in this township alone as a target group for this reconstruction project.

In Ma An, the Federation delegate visited two villages: Shang He Miao and Xia Chuan. The floods affected each area differently, hitting houses in a scattered pattern in the former community, and in a single concentrated area in the latter.

The floods along the valley completely destroyed and washed away the homes of four families in Shang He Miao. During an interview conducted by the regional disaster management delegate, the villagers said the cost of building up a 100 square metre house was CNY 80,000 (CHF 12,600) in 2006. This year, the rate will increase due to the rising cost of labour. Local authorities have agreed to not rebuild on the current sites due to future risks, and are awaiting the government's plan. The selection of beneficiaries will be based on criteria agreed upon by Federation and the RCSC.

The collapsed houses in Xia Chuan were mainly old mud-based houses which had been standing a very long time. Many of the villagers are still living in temporary shelters waiting the rebuilding of their homes. In one interview, a 64-year-old woman said that it will take CNY 400 (CHF 63) alone to tear down her collapsed house so that new reconstruction could start. This poses a big challenge for her family, as that amount is a full month's salary for them, and they have other immediate needs such as food and the recovery of personal items that have been lost.

Wu Feng county

The second county visited by the Federation regional disaster management delegate was Wu Feng, a minority area with 84.7 per cent Tu Jia minority people and a population of 200,000. The vice county governor spoke of three brothers who used all their savings to build a three-room house in 2006, to prepare for marriage this year.<sup>2</sup> Unfortunately, they lost everything in the floods of 22 June. Through this story, the importance of reconstruction for the local people and its potential impact on their lives was emphasized.

Within two months after the floods, the local government has reconstructed much of the infrastructure, such as the recovery of 81 county roads, repair on the electric power networks, re-establishment of the communication lines and recovery of the water supply system. Schools have also been reopened. But, according to the local authorities, the annual GDP in the county is only CNY 40 million or CHF 6.3 million (with an average of CNY 200 or CHF 31.5 per person) and the local government depends on relief funds from the central government and external donors. They seek Federation support for their most disadvantaged families, which, for the most part, are scattered across the mountainous areas in the county.

There is a total of 50,000 households in Wu Feng spread across rough terrain. The local government has tried to create concentrated areas for housing before, but due to the distance between these sites and the farmland, farmers have left their new houses to live in less adequate structures on the farmland. This problem is prevalent in many communities when considering new sites for housing. Accessibility to the livelihood of the farmers is critical to creating a sustainable solution.

For those who have been affected by disasters, very few resources beyond limited government assistance are available. Insurance programmes are weak in Wu Feng both for farmers' housing and crop production. After two consecutive years of flooding, however, the awareness of insurance options has improved among local people. Business insurance companies have also tried to promote insurance purchasing among farmers to cover their homes, crops and livestock, etc.

Impact: It is estimated that a total of 2,000 families will benefit if funding, as originally planned, is secured. At present funding levels, the reconstruction of only 400 or so houses is feasible.

Next steps:

In the coming weeks, the Federation, together with the RCSC headquarters, will be visiting the other four provinces supported by this appeal to assess other areas for reconstruction.

Community disaster risk reduction and flood mitigation needs

Objective 3: The vulnerability of communities affected by this year's floods to future flood disaster is reduced through the introduction of community-based flood mitigation activities in four villages.

<sup>2</sup> Due to a gender imbalance in rural areas, further exaggerated with increased urban migration amongst young women from the countryside, many men in rural areas throughout China are unable find wives and it is customary to build a new home to attract any prospective wives to the family.

Progress/Achievements: The Federation is in the process of selecting villages for reconstruction. The plan is to continue support to these villages through the set up of community disaster risk reduction programmes that will ensure long-term stability of reconstruction efforts and allow the community means to meet their own needs in the future. At this point, the appeal coverage is not enough to support this programme component.

Impact: The estimated long-term impact of this component is very positive. The communities will establish a committee, disaster preparedness plans, and mitigation activities as well as build on health education and first aid skills within the community. Funding is greatly needed for this component.

Federation Coordination

Besides the East Asia regional disaster management delegate, who is closely following the situation and working in tandem with the RCSC, a relief coordinator has been hired for six months. This relief delegate, seconded by the Japanese Red Cross for six months, is working very closely with RCSC and travelling to the field to participate in the assessment and selection process. The delegate will also closely observe the procurement and distribution process, as well as monitor beneficiary satisfaction. The regional finance manager is also continuing to provide support as needed in meeting the expectations of financial reporting to RCSC headquarters and branches.

Red Cross and Red Crescent Movement - Principles and initiatives

Flood relief efforts of the RCSC, supported by the Federation, adhere to the principles and initiatives of the Red Cross Red Crescent Movement. The criterion for selecting beneficiaries ensures that Red Cross is meeting the needs of the most vulnerable. Since many rural farmers are women caring for the family while the husbands do industrial labour in the urban areas, a high proportion of beneficiaries are women, children and senior citizens. The risk reduction components of the project further strive to restore their dignity and improve their capacities in setting up protection mechanisms for future disaster situations.

National Society Capacity Building

The capacity at both headquarters and local branch levels is high for these projects, with adequate support and funding. The national society has already raised a good portion of funds for the floods and the local branches are able to respond rapidly to the needs of the communities, when properly supplied.

Communications – Advocacy and Public Information

The Federation secretariat continues to support the national society with advocacy and information dissemination on a global level. A regional information officer is currently working out of Beijing to bring the stories and information to donors and the public. This officer keeps in close contact with media agencies throughout China and the world. The Federation will continue to support Red Cross efforts through close communications with the media department at RCSC headquarters, and liaise with relevant international agencies and partners.

How we work

All International Federation assistance seeks to adhere to the Code of Conduct for the International Red Cross and Red Crescent Movement and Non-Governmental Organizations \(NGOs\) in Disaster Relief and is committed to the Humanitarian Charter and Minimum Standards in Disaster Response \(Sphere\) in delivering assistance to the most vulnerable.

The Federation's Global Agenda

The International Federation's activities are aligned with under a Global Agenda, which sets out four broad goals to meet the Federation's mission to "improve the lives of vulnerable people by mobilizing the power of humanity".

Global Agenda Goals:

- Reduce the numbers of deaths, injuries and impact from disasters.
- Reduce the number of deaths, illnesses and impact from diseases and public health emergencies.
- Increase local community, civil society and Red Cross Red Crescent capacity to address the most urgent situations of vulnerability.
- Reduce intolerance, discrimination and social exclusion and promote respect for diversity and human dignity.
