

More than 300 million people are on the move today – fleeing conflict, disasters, and climate impacts, or seeking safety and opportunity. Yet responses remain fragmented and underfunded, leaving many to face closed borders and dangerous routes instead of dignity and safety.

Migration doesn't start at the border – and neither does our support.

The IFRC Global Migration and Displacement Platform connects humanitarian assistance, protection, and long-term development into one comprehensive response. By bringing together and supporting local Red Cross and Red Crescent teams worldwide, across 191 countries and 250,000 branches, we are local, everywhere. We're present before, during, and after people's journeys – from origin to destination.

Our ambition: support 100 million refugees, migrants, Internally Displaced Persons, and host communities by 2030.
